127 S. E. Main St.
circa 1860
Minneapolis, Minn.

Three story stone building, one of the first buildings of any importance built in the city. Used for fire station, Post office, hotel and offices.

Of interest for the quality of its design and workmanship, the stones of the arches being perfectly fitted with very fine jointing. The detail of the interior trim is unusually refined for the frontier period in which it was built.

Present owner is Mrs. Fannie Lockwood, Hastings Hotel, Minneapolis, Minn.

District Officer.
